

Head - Newton Prep

Since its foundation in 1991, Newton Prep has grown from humble beginnings as a school of only 70 pupils to the ambitious, market-leading prep school it is today, proudly educating over 640 boys and girls aged 3 to 13 on a state-of-the-art campus near Battersea Park and the Power Station development. The school aspires to be a model for best practice in all aspects of prep education and is unashamedly ambitious for its children and their families.

Pupils enjoy an unparalleled educational environment which is characterised by an innovative and future-looking approach. The school's curriculum has been carefully designed to reflect a rapidly changing and multicultural world and to mirror the richness of its diverse pupil body. In addition, Newton Prep's co-curricular offering is unmatched in central London, with first-class creative and sporting facilities including art studios, recital halls, a music technology suite and a professional standard floodlit Astro turf.

The school rigorously prepares its pupils for entry into a wide range of top senior schools in London and beyond, with many achieving scholarships to the country's most prestigious institutions. From the top day schools to leading boarding schools and everything in between, Newton Prep pupils are given the resources and support to move forward to the next stage of their educational journey with confidence and maturity.

Following Alison Fleming's exceptional twelve year tenure as Head, the Proprietor now seeks to appoint her successor, to begin in post in September 2025. The appointed candidate will be an outstanding, forward-thinking and resilient school leader, with the confidence and ambition to lead the delivery of the best-in-class prep education in an increasingly complex and uncertain world. Crucially, they will subscribe to the ethos and values of Newton Prep and be able to build trust and a sense of shared purpose with its exceptional community.
